Screenplay by Sarah Dollard

About the writer

Sarah Dollard is an Australian screenwriter who now lives and works in the UK. She started by writing episodes of the long-running Australian soap opera Neighbours. In addition to Face the Raven, she has written Thin Ice for series 10 of Doctor Who.

About the programme

Face the Raven is episode 10 of the ninth Doctor Who series. It was first broadcast on 21st November 2015. The Doctor is played by Peter Capaldi, and his companion, Clara, by Jenna Coleman. Rigsy (Jiovan Wade), who appeared in Flatline, makes a return, as does Ashildr (Maisie Williams), previously in The Girl Who Died and The Woman Who Lived.

Summary

Ashildr, an immortal who has lived for over 1000 years, is now ruling a secret street in London inhabited by aliens in human form. To hold on to power she has a contract with the Quantum Shade, who will kill on request. But the Quantum Shade want power over the Doctor so they can teleport him to wherever they choose. To bring the Doctor and Clara to the street, Ashildr has their friend Rigsy accused of murder and condemned to be killed by the raven. A Chronolock on the back of his neck counts down the minutes to his death. Clara believes that Ashildr will protect her and so transfers the Chronolock to herself. However, this renders Ashildr powerless as it changes the contract and as a result the raven kills Clara. The Doctor's body turns into bright light and he vanishes.

Chapter 1: Rigsy calls the TARDIS to say he woke up with a tattoo on the back of his neck. It is a number, which changes every minute, counting down. The Doctor and Clara take him into the TARDIS, where the Doctor checks Rigsy and concludes that aliens have wiped his memory of the previous day. He also says that the tattoo is called a Chronolock, but won't tell Rigsy what happens when it reaches zero. The Doctor says they must stop the countdown and find the culprits.

Chapter 2: Assuming the tattoo is the work of aliens, the Doctor thinks they may be in a hidden 'trap' street. The Doctor, Clara and Rigsy search for the trap streets, using the Doctor's sonic sunglasses. While they look for the street, Rigsy has a memory from the day before: he was standing over the body of a woman with a severe head wound, when two aliens arrived. As the memory fades, he points to a trap street and the three of them go through the entrance. As they do so, an alarm starts to ring.

Chapter 3: They are approached by two men, Rump and Kabel, whom only Rigsy can see are aliens. The men ask why the newcomers need asylum. Then Ashildr appears with a group of guards. The Doctor asks her for help with the Chronolock. Ashildr explains that she has a contract with Quantum Shade, who put a Chronolock on criminals. When the tattoo counts down to zero, a raven appears and kills them. She admits she ordered the Chronolock for Rigsy because he murdered a woman. The Doctor convinces her to tell them what happened when she ordered Rigsy's death, and also makes her promise that Clara will be safe.

Chapter 4: Ashildr says that she has been ruling the street, as mayor, for two hundred years. The Doctor sees that the 'people' around them are from different alien worlds. Ashildr takes them to the hospital, where they see the body of Anah, the murdered woman, in a cage. She is a Janus, with a second face on the back of her head. She came seeking asylum with her son, Anahson. Like all Janus females, she could see into the future and the past. The Doctor says that it's impossible that Rigsy is the killer – he was lured to the trap street by a phone call. Rigsy's tattoo now says he has 41 minutes to live.

Chapter 5: The Doctor, Clara and Rigsy see a man executed by a raven on the street. He received a Chronolock tattoo because he stole medicine from the hospital to save his wife's life. He pleads for his life but Ashildr says he must die. When the counter reaches zero, the raven kills him.

Doctor Who: Face the Raven

Chapter 6: Clara learns that Chronolocks can be transferred, and the recipient will then die instead. In secret, she persuades Rigsy to give her his Chronolock because she believes she is under Ashildr's protection. The tattoo transfers to Clara's neck.

The Doctor is trying to find out more about Anah's murder from the street residents. Rump tells the Doctor that even if Rigsy is innocent, he must die, as the street is a place of asylum and neighbour can't fight neighbour.

The Doctor learns from Kabel that when Rigsy was accused of the murder the previous evening, he told Ashildr to call 'the Doctor'. The Doctor deduces that Ashildr didn't do this as it wasn't part of her plan.

Chapter 7: Clara, the Doctor and Rigsy meet Anahson and learn that he is actually a girl and can see into the future and the past, like her mother. She says that Ashildr had Rigsy accused of murder to bring the Doctor and Clara to the street.

At the hospital, the Doctor sees from a small computer in Anah's cage that she is still alive. He opens the cage with the TARDIS key and a metal bracelet clamps round his wrist. Then the key disappears. Anah begins to wake up as Ashildr appears. The Doctor implies that Ashildr has stolen the TARDIS key.

Chapter 8: Ashildr says that the bracelet round the Doctor's wrist will allow the Quantum Shade to teleport him wherever they want. She learns that the Chronolock is now on Clara's neck. Ashildr says that she can't remove it, because when Clara took the Chronolock from Rigsy, the contract changed and it is now between Clara and the Quantum Shade. The Doctor threatens to destroy Ashildr if she doesn't save Clara, while Clara prepares herself to face her death.

Chapter 9: As they hear the raven flying down the street, Clara makes the Doctor promise not to take revenge on Ashildr. Clara walks out alone into the street and dies bravely.

The Doctor tells Ashildr to stay out of his way in the future. Then his body changes into bright light and he disappears. Ashildr is left to reflect on what she has done and resolves to continue with her work, protecting the street.

Background and themes

Refuge: The trap street is a refuge for those who need a safe place to live, such as Anah and her daughter. Places of refuge and sanctuary have a long history – since Ancient Greece and Rome – as places to escape death, persecution, war, or natural disaster. Ask students to discuss reasons why people might seek a place of refuge. Ask students: What can countries do to help people in need?

Clara's demise: This is Clara's final appearance as the Doctor's assistant. She takes a risk and ends up paying with her life. Discuss Clara's character and motivation for her actions with the students. Ask students: Why does Clara die? Was she right to transfer the Chronolock from Rigsy to herself? What does this tell us about Clara's personal qualities? Did students expect Clara to die as they read the story? How did they feel about this ending?

Foresight vs hindsight – The Janus women: 'Janus women have one face that can see into the future. And their second face can look back at the past.' Ask students: What are the advantages of being able to see into the future? What are the negative factors? How can we use our past experiences to help us with present situations?

Revenge: When Clara learns that she cannot be saved, she makes the Doctor promise that he will not take revenge on Ashildr for her death. The Doctor is a good person and helps people – but losing Clara may have pushed him to do bad things. Ask students: Why was it important for Clara to have Doctor make that promise? Why do people make bad decisions when they're emotional?

Discussion activities

Chapters 1–2

Before reading

- Discuss: Ask the students what they know about London today. Why is it famous? What are its most famous attractions? Have they ever visited London? If so, what did they like / dislike about it? What would they like to see or do if they visited?

While reading

- Research and artwork: (up to page 11: 'Let's go back into the TARDIS.') Put the students into pairs and ask them to research one of these subjects:
The British Library: Where is it in London? When did it open? What does it look like? What is its purpose? How is it coping with the electronic age?

Doctor Who: Face the Raven

Trap streets: What are trap streets? Why do they appear on maps? Do you know of any other places which appear on maps but do not exist in reality?

Examples of such places are Argleton, Lancashire, England (a city which existed only online) and Beatosu and Goblu, Ohio, USA (two cities added to a map of Ohio as a joke). Ask students to see if they can find examples in their country or local area.

Students present their findings, with street names and locations, to the rest of the class.

Chapters 3–4

While reading

- 3 Discuss: (up to page 18: 'They've mixed together buildings and vehicles and other equipment from the last six hundred years.')

Put the students in small groups and ask them to discuss the following questions: What examples of old and contemporary architecture are there in your town or capital city? Should old buildings be preserved or should they be replaced by new ones?

After reading

- 4 Role play: (after Chapter 3)
Put students in groups of four to play the parts of Clara, the Doctor, Rigsy and Ashildr. Ask them to prepare a role play of one of the key dramatic moments in Chapter 3. Possible conversations might be when Ashildr explains what a Chronolock is, or when Ashildr admits that she put the Chronolock on Rigsy and why.
- 5 Discuss: The people in the trap street look human, but Rigsy can see that they are aliens. Aliens living amongst us in human form is a popular science fiction theme, e.g. Doctor Who and Superman. Put the students in groups. Ask them to discuss other sci-fi films or TV programmes which use the same technique.

Chapters 5–6

Before reading

- 6 Guess: Put the students in pairs and ask them to make predictions about the following:
- a One of the men on the street stole some medicine. Did he do this ...
    - 1 to save his wife's life?
    - 2 to sell it and make money?

- b Another man has a Chronolock on his neck. Will Ashildr ...
  - 1 save him?
  - 2 leave him to face the raven?
- c To find out more about Anah's murder, do the Doctor and Clara decide to ...
  - 1 talk to people in the street?
  - 2 ask Rigsy to try to remember more?
- d Ashildr has a contract with Quantum Shade so someone has to die. Is there a way to change the contract?
  - 1 Yes.
  - 2 No.
- e Rump wants Rigsy to die for the murder. Is this because ...
  - 1 he doesn't like him?
  - 2 Rigsy doesn't live on the street?

After reading

- 7 Check: Once students have finished the chapters, they check the predictions from exercise 6. The pair with the most correct answers wins.

Chapters 7–9

Before reading

- 8 Read carefully and discuss: Put the students into pairs. Ask them to read the conversation between Ashildr and the Doctor on page 34. Was Clara right to say he shouldn't take revenge? Do they think he will forgive Ashildr one day? If the Doctor meets Ashildr again, what will happen?

After reading

- 9 Pair work: In pairs, ask students to choose a few lines from Chapters 7–9. Tell them to make changes to these so that they convey the wrong meaning. Students then read out their texts to the other students who have to identify the mistakes.
- 10 Research: Ask students to look on the internet for a review of this episode of Doctor Who (series 9, episode 10). Then, students summarise the review, listing the positive and negative points.
