The first mobile phone call was made on 3 April 1973. It was made by a man named Martin Cooper, who worked for Motorola, the makers of the mobile phone. He phoned Dr Joel S. Engel, who worked for a different phone company, and told him he was talking on a mobile phone.

The phone looked a bit different to today's phones. It weighed 1.1 kilos and was nearly twenty-three centimetres long. The phone was never sold to the public, but ten years later Motorola made the DynaTAC 8000X, which they sold for $3995!

More and more mobile phones are sold every year, and in 2014 newspapers reported that there were now more mobile devices than people in the world!

The first tweet was sent on 21 March 2006. The co-founder of Twitter, Jack Dorsey, sent the message: 'Just setting up my twttr.' That was the original name of the company. The vowels came later.

The name was chosen because when they looked up the definition in the dictionary, it said: 'a short burst of inconsequential information', which they thought was quite amusing.

Nowadays, Twitter is one of the most popular social media sites in the world. About 500 million tweets are sent every day and over 300 million people use it every month – a number which is climbing all the time.
